GUIDE OUTFITTERS

in British Columbia

All non-residents are required to be accompanied by a licenced guide while hunting big game, i.e. deer, mountain sheep, mountain goat, moose, caribou, elk, cougar, wolf, grizzly bear, black bear, lynx, bobcat, and wolverine. Guides are not required while hunting small game, i.e. game birds, migratory game birds, fox, raccoon, coyote, skunk and hare.

Guide outfitters employ licenced assistant guides to assist in providing guiding services. Guide outfitters set their own guiding fees. It is suggested that you write several guide outfitters in the area of your choice to obtain full particulars regarding the species of game available, the recommended period to hunt, rates, services provided, and reservations. The assurance of a successful and enjoyable hunt is most dependent upon a clear understanding between the hunter and guide outfitter as to what each expects from the other.

A licenced guide may not have more than two hunters in the field at one time.

The Province is divided into nine administrative regions, having a total of 225 management units for the purpose of efficient game management. The following guide outfitters are listed in the region and management units in which they operate. A list of the big game animals available in each guide's area is shown after each entry.

Refer to the British Columbia Hunting and Trapping Regulations Synopsis for maps showing boundaries of management units, regions, and other pertinent information.

Before you hunt:

1. Make sure you have:
  - a) Your resident or non-resident hunting licence.
  - b) Species licence for those species you intend to hunt. (Also make sure the species you wish to hunt are in the area of your planned hunt.)

Applications for non-resident hunting and species licences are available from Service BC offices,

2. Your licence application, accompanied by your remittance in Canadian Funds by Bank Money Order or Draft on a Canadian Bank, should be sent to a Government Agent or Victoria office 60 days in advance of your hunting trip. Alternatively, you may purchase your licences at these offices during business hours. Have a clear understanding with your guide outfitter as to who is purchasing the licences. Refunds are not issued for duplicate licences.
3. Be familiar with hunting regulations as outlined in the current Hunting and Trapping Regulations Synopsis (available from the same sources as the hunting application).

During your hunt:

1. Properly cancel the appropriate species licence immediately after you make your kill. This cancelled species licence must accompany the carcass or cape when it is being shipped.
2. Ensure that evidence of sex remains on the carcass when required. See the Hunting and Trapping Regulations Synopsis.
3. Compulsory inspection is mandatory for several species. Compulsory Inspections are now provided through the contracted service of qualified Compulsory Inspector.

After your hunt:

1. A correctly completed Report and Declaration of the Guide Outfitter form signed by the Guide Outfitter must also be signed by you, the hunter.
2. Arrange for compulsory inspection, Export Permit and Convention for International Trade in Endangered Species documentation (none or all of which may be applicable). When you present the required parts of your kill for compulsory inspection ensure that your copy of the Report and Declaration of Guide Outfitter, your hunting licence and your species licence are handy for inspection
