How you can reduce the risk of CWD in B.C. ...

Prevention – avoid risky behaviour

Saskatchewan and Alberta have CWD in deer and elk – but only in some areas – learn what these are

If you hunt in AB or SK don't bring the risky tissues back to B.C.
It could potentially infective our environment and our wildlife

Early detection – support surveillance

If CWD is introduced, the sooner we find it, the better chance we'll have to contain and manage it

Early detection and accurate harvest location info will allow management over a smaller landscape

Submit your deer, elk or moose heads to the nearest drop-off location

Education – get the facts

For information on CWD or if you have questions contact The B.C.
