

Frogwatching in Fort St. John

The Charlie Lake Conservation Society has installed a series of signs to draw the attention of people walking the Hospital Trail to the classic sound of spring – the chorus of the Boreal Chorus Frogs. The Boreal Chorus Frog is only found in a very small region of northeastern B.C. – and one of the places where they can be heard singing right in town is Fort St. John.

The frogs can only be heard singing from late April to late May. The best time to hear the chorus is just after sunset but some may start singing at dusk. Another frog that can be heard is the Wood Frog.

So if you live in Fort St. John or are passing through, stop by and walk along the trails and listen to the classic sound of spring.

For more information on this project and other projects:

www.charlielakeconservationsociety.ca

Or find us on Facebook under Charlie Lake Conservation Society.

To learn about the amphibians of B.C. check out

www.bcfrogwatch.ca